Der kleine Carl im Rauch der Husaren

Carl Stülpner · Volume 01

The opening volume of the 24-volume children's book series introduces Carl's family, his home in the Ore Mountains and the uncertain world of his earliest years.

Bibliographic Information

Series	Carl Stülpner · Children's Book Series
Volume	01 of 24 children's books
Title	Der kleine Carl im Rauch der Husaren
Author	Mike Fritzsche
ISBN	978-3-907886-01-4
Edition	1st edition, 2026
Format	A4 · Hardcover · 8 mm spine
Production	Thread-sewn binding · 170 g interior paper · Matte-laminated cover
Age range	Read-aloud 4–10 years · Independent reading 7–11 years
Prices	Germany €19.90 · Austria €20.90 · Switzerland CHF 24.90
Publisher	intersaxonia

What the Book Is About

Black Hussars force Carl's mother to show them the way to Zschopau. When she returns, the house is filled with smoke and little Carl is struggling to breathe. People from the village help, open the windows and save the child. At the end, a comet in the sky points towards the years and adventures still to come.

Why This Volume Matters

Volume 01 opens Carl's world. It shows the beginning of a life shaped by family, danger, mutual support and the experiences of ordinary people in the Ore Mountains. The focus is not the poacher Carl would later become, but the child and the world into which he was born.

Positioning for Booksellers

- Historical adventure with a strong regional connection and an accessible story.
- Suitable for families, schools, libraries and visitors to the Ore Mountains.
- High-quality production with strong gift appeal.
- Opening volume of a chronologically told series with long-term recognition value.

Orders and further information: carlstuelpner.de